

Lodging in Cape May County The Goshen School of Art Workshops

This list is for your review to help find a suitable place to stay while participating in the workshop. Cape May County, being a peninsula, is very easy to get around, with the Parkway and Route 9 being the main north and south routes with access to Cape May, Stone Harbor & Avalon. Route 47 is another main North/South road running along the west side of the peninsula, (where my farm is) most other roads cross the county like ladder steps.

Crow Creek Farm (The Goshen School of Art), where the workshops are conducted, is located at 521 Route 47 North (DELSEA DRIVE on GOOGLE) in Goshen. (Sometimes GPS prefer Middle Township or Cape May Court House, 08210.

There is an ORANGE sign by the red dirt road, near MM 15 it is very easy to find. Here I have a small studio cottage where I live and an Amish Barn where we have a bathrooms and kitchen and all classes are held. There are 37 acres I own, surrounded by hundreds of acres of farm fields, and thousands of acres of marshes. I have several lookout locations and painting spots. After the first day we may venture forth from here, locations always being within 10 miles. I will provide maps when you come to the pre-workshop evening.

Spring and fall rates are lower than summer, most places fill up on weekends, and the list is not an endorsement, just a quick list of places I know to be convenient or are customers of mine. Google them. My cell phone is 609-827-6423 feel free to call anytime.

VIP NOTE: If you choose a B&B* remember we often start BEFORE they serve breakfast!
